* The illustration is for explanatory purposes only. The actual reserve price on the item shown was not 30,000 yen.

[No reserve price]

The current price + 1,000 yen (the minimum bid amount) is displayed as the current price (26,000 yen).

[Reserve price not yet met]

The current price + 1000 yen (the minimum bid amount) is displayed as the current price (26,000 yen).

Also, "Reserve price not yet met" is displayed in red to bidders only.

The amount is displayed in red when the reserve price is not yet met.

[Reserve price (30,000 yen) met]

Instead of bidding up the price as the current price + the minimum bid amount, the price automatically increases to the reserve price.

The current price is displayed as 30,000 yen.

Also, the amount is displayed in green when the reserve price has been met.

* If another user bids on the item, the price will rise automatically to the limit of 40,000 yen.

If 31,000 yen is bid: The current price will be 32,000 yen

If 35,000 yen is bid: The current price will be 36,000 yen

4. Reserve negotiations

If merchandise you have bid on or listed has not reached the reserve price (the seller's desired successful bid amount), it will be displayed on My Page under "Negotiate to Sell (for Sellers)" or "Negotiate to Buy (for Bidders)."

Sellers: Enter a negotiation price on My Page by 4:00 pm on the bidding deadline date

Buyers: Check the negotiation price and finalize your decision whether or not to negotiate on My Page from 4:00 pm on the bidding deadline date to 9:00 am the following day

* May be entered and checked at any time, even before the starting time, for auctions shown as on reserve on My Page

Be sure to check before the deadline, since all reserve negotiations by both sellers and bidders will be invalid after the deadline.

(Please be sure to check the "Notices" for the closing time.)

If any items are on reserve, choose "Reserve" on the shopping list to display them.

Choose either of the following responses to the price proposed by the seller:

●OK (accept)

●NG (decline)

Then, click "Save."

* Reserve negotiations may be conducted only once per item.

Negotiations will start from the current price, regardless of the maximum bid you entered.

(If the current price is 38,000 yen and you entered a maximum bid of 50,000 yen, negotiations will start at 38,000 yen.)

Note that you cannot renegotiate the amount proposed by the seller.
